40th Anniversary & Emeritus Board

CBCA IS PROUD TO CELEBRATE ITS 40th ANNIVERSARY MILESTONE IN 2025!

A forward-thinking group of Colorado business leaders were inspired by David Rockefeller's national Business Committee for the Arts, which was formed in 1967 to demonstrate corporate social responsibility by supporting the arts. Under this model, CBCA was created in 1985 with the mission to educate, motivate and recognize business support for and participation in the arts in Colorado. CBCA has been forging inspiring arts and business partnerships ever since.

As an advocate, convener and connector, CBCA's mission is to advance Colorado's creative economy by connecting business and the arts. While CBCA was originally focused on corporate philanthropy and business support for nonprofit cultural organizations, the scope has evolved to uplift the mutually beneficial intersection of arts and business. CBCA's work has expanded to serve the for-profit creative industries, including individual artists, creative entrepreneurs and arts-based businesses.

In light of our 40th anniversary year, CBCA is announcing the creation of a new Emeritus Board. Over the past 40 years many outstanding leaders have volunteered to serve on the CBCA Board of Directors. Some have truly gone above and beyond and continue to support CBCA as a donor, member, volunteer, ambassador and champion in the community. Thus, we are elated to announce the first five Emeritus Board members:

- Luella Chavez D'Angelo (board member 2003-2011)
- Dan Prather (board member 2014-2021)
- Maren Stewart (board member 2007-2015)
- Elaine Torres (board member 2005-2013)
- Chris Wineman (board member 2004-2012)
